From Here On The Musicians Take Over

The first rehearsal of the Regional Symphony Orchestra will be held at Carmel High School Cafeteria Monday evening, January 6, and each Monday thereafter. The Carmel Unified School District, the Carmel Music Foundation, the Regional Symphony Association, made up of music lovers and sponsors throughout the county, educators and other enthusiasts have done everything possible to establish an administration for the Symphony Orchestra and get it started under good auspices. They have gone as far as they can. It is now up to the musicians themselves. If the local people who play orchestra instruments want to participate, giving themselves and their fellow citizens the satisfaction of home produced music, the orchestra has every chance of success. However, if the musicians are not interested, no amount of bolstering and encouraging from the side lines will get the orchestra going and keep it going.

The musicians do not have to be concert artists. This is an amateur orchestra, organized for music and fun. Nobody demands professional, metropolitan performance, though something very like it may develop under Leon Minear's capable direction.

Turn To School Notes Please

We think the poems written by Miss Jean Staffelsbach's fifth grade students for the Sunset Notes this issue are unusually good for youngsters of their age. There are flights of imagination and poetic imagery that make the school column of this issue well worth your reading time.

However, we feel that it's worth while to read the Sunset notes of any issue. Contact with young minds is refreshing and stimulating to adults, an exercise in mental elasticity in catching the young point of view.

You're Breaking The Law

We'd just come down from Judge George Ross's office when we met Paul McKinstry on the corner by Fortier's.

"Do you own a mouse trap, Paul?"

McKinstry admitted he owned a mouse trap; who doesn't and what of it?

Then we had a chance to explain to our first victim that he's a law breaker. Judge Ross had just read us his favorite law, Section 250 of the Fish and Game Code, Subdivision B, which states in remarkably clear language for a legal document that, "It is unlawful to use, or have in possession in a game refuge any fire-arm, or any trap or other contrivance designed to be or capable of being used to take birds or mammals or to discharge any fire arms into any game refuge."

"Carmel is smack-dab in the middle of a game refuge," we pointed out to Paul McKinstry. "A mouse trap is a trap, and a mouse

Silliman Ornithological Library Now At Salinas J. C., Available To Local Students, Nature Hobbyists

The invaluable collection of books on ornithology, zoology (particularly as related to birds) and early Pacific explorations collected over a period of fifty years by the late O. P. Silliman of Salinas has been donated to the Salinas Junior College. The volumes, which would cost more than $100,000 to replace on the present market, have been placed as a whole in a separate library at the college, to be called the O. P. Silliman Memorial Library. The formal opening will be soon, as school librarians have been working all year to arrange and catalogue the enormous number of rare, highly specialized volumes, which form, perhaps, one of the best ornithological collections in the country.

Robert L. Rudd, the grandson of the late O. P. Silliman, is a graduate student in zoology at the University of California and has taken considerable interest in the library and its placement. He is very well pleased, he stated, with the treatment the books have been given at the Salinas Junior College, particularly as the college has agreed to perpetuate the library and bring it up to date, by serial subscriptions to scientific periodicals and the like.

For two years following O. P. Silliman's death in 1943, the books were stored in a warehouse while the family considered several possibilities for making them available to interested students. At Salinas Junior College, the books will be useful not only to students but to anyone interested in the field. As many of the books are too valuable to loan, the library will not be conducted on a loan basis, but will be open during school hours to the public.

In addition to the books there is a large card catalogue of typed material on birds, including observations, references and correspondence, collected over a period of many years by O. P. Silliman.

Among the books on ornithology is a set of Audubon original prints which now sells at $4,500. Early California explorations include volumes by La Perouse, Vizcaino, Fremont, Captain Cook, Vancouver, Kotzebue, and many others.

O. P. Silliman, who was in the grain warehousing business in Salinas, became interested in birds at the age of 11, and began collecting birds' eggs, bird skins and books about birds at that time. By the time he was 16 years old, he had already collected 86 volumes. In those days, ornithology wasn't considered a promising profession, so after several years of teaching and a few years of farming, he went into the warehousing business in Castroville in 1906, later removing to Salinas.

Members of more than 15 different scientific organizations, including the California Academy of Sciences at the Golden Gate in San Francisco (of which he was a life member), the Cooper Ornithological Club, and the Audubon Society, Silliman was always actively involved in the study of birds.

In 1937 and 1938, he became interested in making a vertebrate natural history survey of Monterey County and all the adjoining counties, and employed a student from the university to do the field collecting. The resultant mammal collection came to 1,500 animal skins.

Silliman's own bird collection amounted to 3,000 bird skins and 5,000 sets of eggs which he donated to the Museum of Vertebrate Zoology at the University of California.

"There is still plenty of work to be done regarding birds of this area," Robert L. Rudd emphasized, "and the library is not quite complete."

However, in years to come, Salinas Junior College will buy additional books and secure all available material from scientific periodicals.

GETTING AROUND THE PENINSULA

With ROZ

As far as the spectators were concerned, the fire which destroyed the main building of the Pacific Grove High School Saturday night was a grand and glorious spectacle judging by various lively accounts.

The fire was reported at 8:31 p. m., and when it went out over the radio at 9, thousands of people from all over the peninsula flocked to watch the conflagration. More than 5,000 people attended. None, however, stayed till the bitter end, which occurred after 7 o'clock the next morning when weary, exhausted fire crews were only too eager for food and sleep.

People who arrived at the fire around 11 o'clock Saturday night said it was like a picnic, with people running across the lawns in front of the burning building, kids throwing rocks in the windows so the firemen could get their hoses through, and coffee being served to the assembled crowd from a station wagon. Spectators were able to park within a block of the fire by that time and even on the same side of the street. Altogether, they had a grandstand view of the giant bonfire which shot up into the sky and could be seen as far away as Fort Ord.

By the time the alarm was sent in, at 8:31 p. m., the fire was already well advanced and it was too late to save the school. Soon after fire crews arrived, the roof fell in, so they concentrated on the auditorium and other school buildings adjacent to the main building. More than half a million gallons of water were used.

Hoses were borrowed from the Fort Ord fire department and Fort Ord stood by at Monterey, while Monterey crews went over to Pacific Grove to help out. Seaside turned out. The Carmel fire department wasn't called to the fire, but volunteered their services when the report came to them at 9 p. m., and stood by until 11 o'clock.

The high school building, built in 1911, was completely destroyed, but the auditorium and other school buildings were untouched due to the valiant efforts of the

Last Undeveloped Carmel Tract Is Sold In Big Deal

The last undeveloped area near Carmel was involved in one of the biggest real estate transfers here in many years when the Carmel Land Company sold its entire holdings, including the 400 acres where the Carmel High School is located, last week to the Carmel Company, a new corporation headed by C. A. Fuller.

Also in the deal were all the unsold portions of the Hatton Fields Tract, about 40 or 50 lots.

Massey Flies Monkeys From Manila—"They Stink!"

Ernest Massey, formerly of The Pine Cone advertising staff, came back to Carmel for the holidays and has many an interesting tale to tell about his new job with Trans-Ocean Airlines, where he is employed as a navigator.

One of his recent jobs was to transport 750 monkeys from the Philippines back to the states for polio experiments. "The monkeys smelled, or rather stink is the word," Massey said.

He flies to Hawaii, the Philippines, Siam, China, all over the world, and Oakland is his base. It takes 44 hours to fly to the Philippine Islands from Oakland, he said, and from there they take short hops to China, Siam and back. The Chinese don't let any American airplanes land at their fields, so Trans-Ocean Airlines always has to re-register its planes with the Philippine government.

As for Manila—Massey says it's full of jeeps, "the craziest looking contraptions you could see, bought from the Army when it pulled out and rigged up with fancy tops to look like sedans." The streets crawl with them, because after the occupation, the Filipinos had no other vehicle of transportation.

Another recent assignment was flying thousands of chickens from Oakland to the Philippines. Just as frequently, however, they carry passengers, and they took a load of construction workers down to Guam not long ago.

Ernest Massey, who was a navigator in the Air Transport Command during the war, says civilian flying is a comparative cinch, as CPT rules only allow 100 flying hours per month, in order to prevent exhaustion. The rest of the time is your own, and sometimes a pilot or navigator with a commercial air line has several weeks off, because the 100 flying hours are gotten in all at once, in a stretch of intensive flying.

NEEDLES EVERYWHERE

If you don't find the social item you are particularly interested in in the place you would expect to find it this issue, keep looking. This is the festive season. Lots of parties mean lots of needles. They have overflowed the Needle pages and are in every nook and cranny of the paper. Their placing was determined by the time of week the staff succeeded in gathering them (some pages are printed earlier than others) and not because we think some parties are more important than others. Everybody's party is important to The Pine Cone.

Purchase price is believed to be between $150,000 to $200,000.

The 400 acres extend from the Carmel Valley Road along the east side of Highway No. 1 to a line opposite the hospital. The high school is the only development. Not even a road cuts the rolling contour of the land, with its view of the Valley hills, Lobos, and Carmel Bay.

Fuller, who has been a resident of Carmel for over twenty years, is the owner of Cabbages and Kings, other Carmel business property, and the famous old Castro Ranch down the Coast, plans to bring in the best subdivision engineers and architects available to advise in the opening of the tract, which he expects to make into a model for beautiful residential areas.

Ernie Schweninger, who, with the Flanders family was a major holder in the Carmel Land Company, is associated with the new Carmel Company. Sales will be conducted through his office.

Prexy, Atom Bomb Men Here For Alumni Dinner

University of California and Atom Bomb biggies are spending the weekend in Carmel, driving over to Salinas Sunday to be the speakers and guests of honor at the Alumni banquet at 6:30 p. m. in the Masonic Dining Room.

In the party, which is staying at La Playa Hotel, are President Gordon Sproul, Robert Sibley, executive manager of the University of California Alumni Association, Dr. Luis Alvarez, and Dr. Melvin Calvin of Atomic bomb fame.

Dr. Alvarez was one of the scientists in the B-29 that dropped the atomic bomb on Hiroshima and was responsible for an essential part of the bomb itself. He was also important in the development of radar.

Dr. Calvin is experimenting with the use of radioactive particles in tracing the spread of disease in the human body. These "tagged atoms" may prove as revolutionary in the field of medicine as the X-ray was in its day.

Peninsula Alumni who want to attend the dinner can get reservations by phoning Dr. W. H. Bingham, Salinas 3136 or 4542.

3 CITY GET-TOGETHER

At the Rotary meeting in Monterey yesterday, new President Hal McLain of the Monterey Chamber of Commerce proposed that there be a three city get-together at a dinner at the Country Club on January 16 to discuss the organization of a Peninsula wide organization for handling problems of mutual interest, such as the proposed auditorium and a publicity pamphlet for the entire peninsula.

BASKETBALL ACTIVITY ON THE PENINSULA

PINE CONE QUINTET ENTERS INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE

Under the guiding hand of Officer Dufur and sponsored by The Carmel Pine Cone, a local entry will participate in the newly formed Peninsula basketball league. Playing on the Monterey High School court the league will embrace six teams and will play twice around. Besides giving adults of the community an opportunity to participate in basketball on a competitive basis, this league will give basketball fans the thrill of seeing past favorites cavort on the hardwoods once again.

The Pine Cone hoopsters have been working out for the last three weeks and are rapidly rounding into a cohesive unit. Paced by Jim Muscatt, a dead-eye forward, the locals have provided plenty of competition for all opposition. Monday night the Salinas 20-30 Club visited the local court and, after a close game, finally emerged on the long end of a 32 to 27 score. The Pine Cone cagers were in front for most of the ball game, but several defensive lapses toward the close of the game gave the visitors three quick buckets to ice the game. Muscatt swished the nets for four field goals, while Bobby Bell picked up three field goals and two free throws. Belvail, Studevant and Ricketts moved around the floor like three ball-bearings on a saucer, and handled the casaba like experts. Somerville, Pine Cone center, who formerly played for San Francisco Junior College, shows definite promise of being a good play-maker and is a rough customer to guard when he gets around the key-hole.

Pine Cone roster and points each scored against the Salinas 20-30 Club: Belvail, Studevant 5, Muscatt 8, Bell 8, Leslie, Somerville 4, Van Riper, Hendricks, Ricketts 2.

BASKETBALL FUN FOR BOYS ON VACATION

Most any day during the Christmas vacation one can find a basketball game in progress at the Carmel High School gym. The high school varsity and lightweight clubs have been working out for a couple hours each day, and former students, who are now in college, have worn out a few nets with their accurate shooting. Clayton Neill, Art Templeman, Martin Irwin, Dick Moore, and Bill Gargiulo represent a quintet of sharpshooters which has accepted the challenge of all comers and has more than held their own in the encounters. They took the measure of the high school varsity by a 56 to 44 count with Clayton Neill, Stanford freshman, hitting the mesh for 20 points and Art Templeman, Wyoming frosh, finding the range for 17 markers. Monday evening the Russ Bohlke led American Legion five provided the opposition for the Collegians, and just barely nipped them in as accurate a shooting fray as can be found in any gymnasium. Each team made over 40 percent of their shots, with Dick Uzzell, Legion center, hitting 60 percent of his. Dick contributed 15 points for the Legion cause, and Neill threw in 9 for the College lads.

It is a pleasure to watch these boys play basketball and sports fans will be seeing them perform on university and college teams before they finish their educational ventures.

Local boys playing for the American Legion club are: Mac Ashton, Dick Uzzell, Bob Weer, Del Wermuth, and Johnny Weigold. These lads work together in a smooth manner and present five scoring threats from any place on the floor.

Lowell Todd, Pacific Grove alumnus, coach at Shafter High School, brought his basketball team to the Peninsula for a vacation trip and they played the Carmel varsity. The Carmel boys, working in an improved manner, found the competition to their liking and walked off with the game 39 to 30. The Padre forward combination of Cross and Wettengel provided the scoring punch for Carmel, while Greenan and Winslow turned in tight defensive performances. The local preppers are playing plenty of basketball, and when the league season starts on January 10, they should be ready to get off with a rolling start.

CCAL HOOP NOTES

Next week the CCAL basketball teams forego the warming up process of practice games and get down to the real thing of championship league play. As teams are rated on practice game performances, it looks like Watsonville will repeat its championship performance of last year in the A division, and Pacific Grove, off its smashing victory over Salinas, should handle any threat from the smaller schools in the B division. Watsonville has three boys back from their '46 aggregation which ran roughshod over all opposition last season. They have played eight games this season, losing only to the strong Salinas Junior College Varsity. Last Friday night they smothered the Carmel quintet 38 to 21 and looked mighty good in all respects. Major source of competition for the Wildcats should come from the Hollister Haybalers. Hollister also has a veteran club returning, and although not as finished performers as Watsonville, they have the potential ability to provide the upset. Salinas and Monterey are below and are building for future seasons, while Santa Cruz has just a mediocre club. The Watsonville lightweights will prove tough for all opposition to handle, and if Santa Cruz can't handle them they will go through the season undefeated. The Salinas Lighties off their showing against Pacific Grove could come along far enough to be a contender, but at this stage, are below the caliber of the Wildkittens.

King City and Gonzales are unknown quantities in the B division race but King City has all last year's varsity returning and they were a dangerous team. Gonzales has a squad made up of extremely fast boys and they could provide plenty of upsets throughout the season. Pacific Grove, led by Marty Larking, Bob Toole, and Gerald Herzog, should have the tools to go through the season undefeated in league play. They have good height, plenty of speed, and good shooting ability, which are three items hard to cope with in basketball. The local Padres are green as grass but should come fast as the season develops. They present a willing aggressive ball club which keeps winging for all four quarters. While the Pacific Grove Varsity is good, the lightweights are said to be even better. They have tasted defeat but once this season, and that to the highly-touted Salinas Babes. Comes January 10th we'll have a better line on all contestants and a darkhorse could emerge to steal the honors. Good Luck for a grand season.

SALINAS JAYCEE PROVES JINX FOR CARMEL LEGION NINE

Jack Giles and his Carmel Legion baseball team can handle all the teams in the Peninsula Winter League without too much difficulty until they run afoul of the Junior College tossers. Last Sunday it looked as though they might surmount the JC hex but in the fifth inning the explosion occurred and the collegians went home with a 5 to 3 verdict. Gordy Miyamoto had pitched hitless ball until the fatal fifth. The Salinas boys picked up two runs on errors in the second frame when the usually reliable Huffman muffed an infield fly with two runners in scoring position. Carmel scored twice in the second on a base blow by Askew, a walk, and a solid poke into left by Gordy Miyamoto. In the third canto Carmel went into the lead when Jim Priem, Salinas hurler, developed a streak of wildness and walked across a marker. (Continued on page 8)

Mail Truck Neurosis Down Coast

By ROSALIND SHARPE

One fine, lazy day last summer, when the Deetjen barn had grown too sultry for one to contemplate anything more active than sitting under a redwood tree by a stream while listening to Mozart and being fanned by a Nubian boy, I hopped the mail-stage and struck out for Anderson Creek to see Betty Franck. Betty, who had come out from New York to meet Henry Miller because she liked his writing, had recently discovered she could paint and was occupying Emil White's house while he was away in New York arranging for an exhibit at the Museum of Modern Art.

As usual down the coast, everyone was eagerly waiting for the mail-stage with its load of groceries, kerosene, milk, newspapers, letters and packages (delivered thrice a week) and as we pulled to a stop opposite the vine covered cottage with its picturesque sign in peasant style letters surrounded by flowery abstractions saying "Emil White," we were greeted by a crowd of anxious women—Betty Franck, Ida Hodeis, Margaret Neimann and Lepski Miller. Swooped into the house, where Betty immediately surrounded me with jugs of different colored wine, a hectic, feverish, almost maniacal, activity immediately became manifest. Three manuscripts had been returned by the Big Sur post office for lack of adequate wrapping. Henry Miller, Gilbert Niemann and Walker Winslow were the authors; all three manuscripts were rush jobs, impatiently awaited by publishers.

Seizing scissors, paper, glue, string, pieces of tape, and gummed paper strips, Betty Franck involved herself in a monumental job of tearing, ripping, re-wrapping and addressing, for the mail-stage was due back from Lucia in 45 minutes, and there wouldn't be another stage for two days. No one in the art colony had a car. After awhile Gilbert Niemann, translator of Lorca's Blood Wedding and author of a novel on Mexican laborers imported to work in the U. S. during the war (which will be brought out by Harcourt Brace in the spring), dashed in, red faced, blue eyed, anxious, hovering over Betty and looking at his watch.

"Only 30 minutes left," he cried, "Hurry, he'll be back any minute." I consumed a glass of red wine, looked at the innumerable paintings which covered every inch of wall space, and watched the cat, Puff, who, imbued with spirit of the feverish human activity around her, became temporarily deranged. Stalking with silent paws across the room, hiding behind furniture and under tables, she would suddenly lose all caution and pounce—pounce madly, play with the imaginary thing she caught, turn a few somersaults, and just as suddenly calm down again. Then she would stalk some more, and repeat the whole performance. After awhile, growing tired of this, she gave up all pretense of reality and began chasing imaginary butterflies, bees, moonbeams or what-have-you. The cat was utterly daft but after awhile came over to be stroked.

A thin, rather scrawny, obviously not altogether normal cat, she enjoyed the happy delusion that she was an attractive, lovable, ordinary cat, possessed of all the things that most cats have.

Meanwhile, Lepski Miller dashed in, dressed in slacks, bright belt, and sweater, announcing that a letter in the mail required immediate action so she would have to hitch hike to the nearest telephone at the cocktail bar. The stage was due in a few minutes, but it would take too long to get there. Gilbert Niemann continued to look at his watch and say, "Oh dear, hurry, he'll be here any minute," and Betty Franck went on feverishly wrapping things.

Seeking relief, my eyes again strayed to the paintings on the wall, abstractions by Emil White, water colors of every description (purely of the imagination) by Betty Franck, and a few masterpieces by Henry Miller (reminiscent of Matisse in some instances) which made the room a riot of color. There was no quietness for the eye anywhere. Just then Henry Miller dashed in, busy and distraught, correspondence in hand, to give instructions about his manuscript. A car came by and gave Lepski Miller a lift north.

Finally, packages neatly wrapped and addressed, people gone, and the cat quiet, Betty Franck settled down for a glass of wine and a few minutes conversation, but just then with a grinding of gears the mail stage arrived to bear me away.

Emil White, labelled by some reviewers "the primitive of the Big Sur" because his landscapes have a refreshing simplicity and directness, returned from New York several months ago, announcing that an exhibit was to be held at the Museum of Modern Art and another in Chicago. Emil's rise to comparative fame has been somewhat meteoric, in that he never studied art in his life and started painting only a year ago, partly inspired by Henry Miller's achievement in that line. Betty Franck, who sold one of her first paintings for $15, left Big Sur for Monterey when Emil returned, and has recently gone back to New York. Gilbert Niemann and Margaret Niemann are no longer at Anderson Creek.

The only newcomer is Rogaway, a Santa Fe artist, two of whose paintings are currently being exhibited at the Pat Wall Gallery in Monterey, but Rogaway lives a mile north of Anderson in an old, deserted school house.

Woman's Club Speaker To Discuss Home Furnishings

Any member of the Carmel Woman's Club who may have a problem of decorating and furnishing a brand new house, or may wish to put a new slipcover on a favorite chair, or even one whose interest in such matters is only academic, will not want to miss the Club's General Meeting next Monday afternoon, January 6th, at the Girl Scout House at 2 p.m. The speaker that day will be Miss Delcena Bair of San Francisco, who will talk on What's New in Home Furnishings and Decorating.

Miss Bair took her training in New York and had practical experience in large stores in the East as consultant on interior decoration. Miss Bair has lectured on her subject in many parts of the country and a Question and Answer period is always an interesting feature at the close of her talks. Samples of new fabrics will be discussed by the speaker with particular reference to texture and color.

Two League Section Meetings Scheduled

International relations study section of the League of Women Voters will meet next Thursday, January 9, at 2:30, at the home of Mrs. Ferdinand Haasis on Torres and Eighth streets, with Mrs. Blanchard Steeves as chairman. Dr. Steeves leading the discussion. Attendance has been large, and subjects considered range from activities of the United Nations in its various organizations, the influence of oil on international policies, the world food situation and possibilities of world government, with three or four members outlining the current situation in the different questions selected, and discussion by the other members.

The group studying the Central Valley Project with Mrs. Perry Newberry as leader will meet in the lobby of La Ribera hotel on Friday, January 10, at 2:30. This group will prepare a detailed study of the questions involved in this important flood control and irrigation project, with its far-reaching effect on California agriculture and industry, to be the program at a general meeting of the League, probably in March. The general meeting of the League this month will be held on Thursday, January 16, with further announcement of the program next week.

Pauline Mudge Engaged

Miss Pauline Mudge of Hancock, New York, who has been living with her aunt, Miss Etta Paul, in Carmel for the past two months, received a diamond engagement ring last week from George Work of Clinton, Iowa. He is president of Clinton Memorial Park. Pauline, more familiarly known about town as Polly, met George when they were both students at the University of Iowa, and although wedding plans aren't definite as yet, she thinks it will be fairly soon. After the wedding, the young couple will live in Clinton, Iowa.

Miss Mudge is the daughter of Dr. E. Leigh Mudge of Hancock, New York, whose volume of poetry, God in Gardens, has recently been published. Since her residence here, she has been working at the Carmel Art Shop and was in charge of props for the Golden Bough Players production of Time of Your Life.

But the other big news last week for Pauline Mudge (as if an engagement weren't enough) was that a film story entitled White Harvest had been accepted by the Protestant Film Commission, and will be produced by the General Council on World Service. She received a check for $300.

The story, Pauline says, is about a young veteran who returns from the war very badly mixed up, has a hard time trying to decide what to do with his life, and finally decides to go into the ministry. His struggles as a young, beginning minister, his mistakes and successes—and a romance of course—form the meat of the story.

Currently, Pauline Mudge is finishing a one-act play.

Clark House Guests

Dr. and Mrs. Howard Elton Clark had for house guests during the holidays Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Keyes of Atherton, and their two children, Bob and Marjory. Mr. Keyes is Mrs. Clark's brother. Her aunt from Oakland, Mrs. Jenness Frear, and Mr. Frear, were overnight visitors on the way to Pasadena for the holidays.

Spice And Bobo, Parents

On Monday evening, December 30, one day after her tenth birthday, Spice Clairmonte gave birth to two male wire-haired terriers and one female, Dr. Ralph Weston, officiating. The babies' father, Bobo Hatlo, was immediately notified in Phoenix, Arizona, where he is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hatlo. It is expected that the Hatlos will immediately return to Carmel in their eagerness to inspect the trip-lets.

Smith College Alumnae Meet

Smith College former students and graduates gathered at the home of Miss Miriam Birdseye on Seventh and Carmelo yesterday to discuss plans for the Smith College 75th Anniversary Campaign to raise funds to increase salaries of the teaching staff and to provide new buildings and hospital facilities at the college. Miss Birdseye is chairman for this area.

Martha Howey, instructor at Ross School for Girls, who is chairman for the Northern California District, came down from San Francisco to meet with the local Smith College women.

Present at the meeting were Mrs. John Morse, Pebble Beach; Mrs. Carl L. Voss, Big Sur; Mrs. C. Mark Thomas, Highlands; Mrs. R. E. Barnett, Monterey; Mrs. J. Breinig, Monterey; Mrs. James G. Hill, Pacific Grove, and of Carmel: Mrs. Leroy P. Collins Jr., Mrs. Ferdinand W. Haasis, Mrs. Margaret H. Land, Mrs. Margaret Pattullo, Mrs. Denney Warren Rober, Miss Agnes L. Williston.

Cunninghams Plant Trees

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence N. Cunningham of Oakland, who bought the acreage north of Spindrift, Martin Flavin's former home, at Yankee Point in the Carmel Highlands last August, were down over the holidays to plant trees. They spent two or three days putting in cypresses and pines for a wind break, preparing for the time when they will build. They also cut out a lot of trees and brush which interfered with the view of the gorge below them.

Doneys Hold Open House

Colonel and Mrs. Carl Doney, who purchased the Harry Leon Wilson home at Carmel Highlands a year ago, held open house on New Year's Day for their many friends. More than fifty people dropped in during the course of the afternoon.

Colonel Doney retired from the regular army last year, and they plan to live at the Highlands permanently.

Adult School Opens January 6; Symphony Rehearsal Monday; Four New Classes In Writing And Art

The Carmel Adult School will open the winter term January 6, John Westover, principal, announces. Popular classes from last term will be continued and the program will be greatly augmented by new classes which are to be added for the coming session.

New classes to be opened include: Writing for Radio, Charcoal and Paster Portraiture, Water Color, and Peninsula Symphony.

The class in Charcoal and Pastel Portraiture will be under the supervision of Kay Rodgers, who taught a similar and highly successful class at the Carmel USO during the war years. The group will meet on Wednesday, January 8 at 7 o'clock in room 11 (and each Wednesday thereafter). Kay joins Mr. John Westover in cordially urging service men to attend this class and learn to sketch or further continue previous art training. Easels and drawing boards will be available to students. Nancy Johnson who teaches the very popular course in Leather Crafts will expand her work in the Adult School by offering a course in Water Color. This class will emphasize drawing and composition for beginning students in both still life and landscape work.

The Adult School in cooperation with the Monterey Regional Symphony Association is pleased to announce that the first rehearsal of the Symphony Orchestra will be held at the Carmel High School Cafeteria Monday evening, January 6, and each Monday evening thereafter. The orchestra will be under the able direction of Leon Minear, Vice-Principal of the Carmel High School. Mr. Minear is a veteran educator in the field of music having had experience as director of music in the Oakland public schools and the University of California.

For all those interested in radio acting and script writing the Carmel and Monterey Adult schools are offering the two courses Radio Acting and Writing Scripts for Radio. They are designed to give the would be radio artist the maximum of experience in the classroom and on the air at KDON. A radio actress, Estelle Carota, is to direct the activities of both the classes. Her experience on the leading stations in Chicago as well as her training at Goodman Theater in Chicago has prepared her for such an assignment.

The class, Writing Scripts for Radio is to help individual writers improve and broaden their scope of writing through class participation and discussion of radio scripts. The original plays submitted by the members of the class will be used for all future broadcasts. Meetings will be held at the Carmel Adult school on Monday and Wednesday evenings at 7:30. The principles of acting as well as proper enunciation and vocalization for radio will be combined with sufficient practice to give the student a working basis for radio acting. This group will produce the plays written by the script writing class over the local station.

The above classes are a combined project of the Monterey and Carmel adult schools with the co-operation of Radio Station KDON. It is hoped that an interested group will attend both phases of the class work and in so doing will write and produce these programs.

In addition to the new classes mentioned, above, the Adult School art department will also continue the courses in Sketching and Painting and the Life Drawing, both under the direction of Lee Randolph — also the class in Modern Schools of Painting taught by Patricia Cunningham.

The fall term just closed has been the most successful in the history of the Carmel Adult School. The citizens of Carmel and the Monterey Peninsula are becoming more and more conscious of the splendid opportunities offered by the Adult Schools of this area and an ever increasing enrollment is anticipated for the coming term.

MY DREAMS AT NIGHT
When I go to sleep at night
And dream of fairies and elves
I want to be with them
In their round fairy ring
Their little town of roses
And of bright rubies so red
Then I wake up and rub my eyes
The elves and fairies in their ring
Have completely left my bed!

NIGHT
Once when I was in bed
There came a blinding flash,
And felt as if I were dead.
I looked again and saw two men;
They crept across the floor,
Then I couldn't see them any more.
I hid my head under my pillow—
I felt like a nice soft willow.
At last when the sun shone
Wasn't I glad I wasn't alone!

ON CARMEL'S BEACH
I love to go to the beach,
And hear the ocean roar,
And watch the water reach
Out for the soft white shore.

As I lie there on the sand

A peace my dreams will keep.

I leave my land of dreams
And open my eyes to see
The shiny dancing moonbeams
On the water so close to me.

Have You Read . . . ?

BY MAURICÉ KORSHET, M. D.

"Breakdown" by Louis Paul is a revealing case-history of an alcoholic. There are two types of alcoholics—continuous and periodic. A person who takes a few drinks daily or occasionally gets drunk could not be termed an alcoholic. From the dawn of history, men and women have imbibed alcohol in one form or another. Drinking is one of the social graces and, when combined with delicious food and delightful companions, is a fine art.

Only recently alcoholism has been classed as a disease which, like venereal disease, concerns not only the individual but society as a whole. Like venereal disease, there has been too much hush-hush about it. The alcoholic was ashamed of his addiction, his friends and relatives covered up for him, his enemies crucified him and the police treated him as a criminal. The result was he invariably ended on the human scrap-heap. The same technique was used on venereal patients until at long last we realized that it was a social problem requiring social understanding and treatment.

What is an alcoholic? I would define an alcoholic as one who craves alcohol for its action either as a sedative or stimulant. In other words, the patient takes alcohol to soothe or excite him. The end results are the same—stupefaction and wreckage. Like any other drug, in small doses it is useful; in large doses detrimental. There are persons who are distinctly allergic to it. They do not become intoxicated—they are just toxic. In this condition, anything can happen and usually does.

This is exactly what happened to Mrs. Ellen Croy, the heroine of our story. A clever, high-strung and imaginative newspaper columnist, she starts out by getting tight at a literary party, finds herself in a cab with a strange man, remembers his pawing her, and then blacks out for a couple of hours. After that, things go from bad to worse until she lands in the psychiatric ward of the city hospital.

The second part of the book deals with her rehabilitation. Seeking relief, she tries doctors who treat her symptoms and hate it, fortune tellers interested in their own fortunes and friends who invite her to drink to forget the whole matter.

Finally a wealthy widow whom she met at a flower show and who talks and acts like a delightful lady dragon (are there any such dear animals out of captivity?) takes her to a very understanding fat little psychiatrist who gives her a psycho-analytical work-out.

Like a light-hearted gnome he delves into her subconscious and digs up a few inner conflicts and infantile impulses. Aware that alcohol was a resentment—a resentment against frustrations, maladjustments, large tragedies and small irritations, she is on the verge of getting drunk again, when her editor admits he too is an alcoholic and whisks her off to a meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous.

This is the beginning of her salvation. Here was an organization demanding no dues-paying, having no axe to grind and no cause to uphold. Here members and speakers frankly and joyously admitted that they were alcoholics. There was no sinful sobbing, no moral flagellation, no lugubrious expiations.

Gaily, they reminisced about their common weakness. Herein lay their strength. Their care-free confession to each other was their safety valve—an emotional outlet far superior to drugs or psychiatric conversations. They gave no rash promises or pledges. Their one hope was to stay off the stuff for twenty-four hours and to keep this up every day as long as possible. Knowing there was no "cure" for their disease, they determined to help each other remain sober.

As one speaker put it: "Our disease is not an

BALM OF THE MORROWS .

*There is a kindness in this world,
a cosmic kindness;
It runs with the gold-hoofed hours;
It is the slave-girl of Time . . .
It is called — Forgetting.*

*There is a waiting in this life,
a familiar waiting,
while marching days smooth beloved faces,
and over the infinity of the mind sight and sound bring back the known . . .*

*There is the soft-fingered night to mend the halves of me reft by a fiend-self;
the night that takes away shame,
while yesterday's hell goes with the minutes . . .
and sleep comes with a profound forgetting.*

*There is the probable sun of tomorrow's noon:
then will go unremembered the prowling season of doubt;
then the very evil I am coupled with will privately vanish, and I shall have forgotten to forget . . .
and I shall forget that I have forgotten.*

—JOHN CARMODY.

DANTE LOOKED DOWN

*Dante opened a window wide
Somewhere up there,
And looked down.
He saw the fair
Moon-picture of the Arno's bending tide,

*Dante forgot the seraphs' singing,
The heavenly, endless anthem ringing—
Thought only of an earthly river
His heart would cherish ever.*

*At sight of Italy sleeping,
Dante fell to weeping.
From the joy up there,
O why did he look down?*

—CHARLES BALLARD.

FIRST DEW

*September brought it:
Cow bells announced its arrival
One morning at six.
It fell on the pale grass
Remaining aloof
On each thirsty blade.*

*As a soothing balm
It relaxed
The pale green fields
Still brittle
With the ardor of summer.*

*It stayed
As strewn pearls everywhere
Till the sparrows came
And the sun;
And each in competition
Picked
One and all.*

—ALFRED LEWIS.

Days Before Yesterday

Newcomers to Carmel keep worrying about the unpaved streets, the ruts and chuck holes, the pine trees straggling here and there, the lack of house numbers, etc. Attracted by the quaintness of the town, they immediately want to improve and modernize it. Native villagers, on the other hand, shudder with horror over every "improvement," as rusticity in Carmel has always been a deliberate rather than accidental phenomenon.

Several years ago, the late John Bathen came forth with a wonderful idea for keeping Carmel picturesque. Under the head One Man's Idea for Beautifying in the January 24, 1930, issue of The Carmel Pine Cone, he said:

"Did you ever take a ride to the end of North Casanova, or to any of those 'not through' streets?

"Not through street' . . . When you come to the end of it you are apt to find a bit of natural nature.

"Here you get a little of THE 'little touches' or real 'old Carmel'; you get a little of the untrammelled woods.

"Did you ever ride down Thirteenth street? Do you not agree with me that this is one of the prettiest streets in town barring none? It winds in and out among the trees. Impractical, yes, but beautiful, and beauty doesn't have to be entirely modern and practical. We light candles around our festive board, although electricity certainly is far more practical.

"WHY COULDN'T WE MAKE A LOT MORE NOT-THROUGH STREETS IN CARMEL? . . .

"It may not be quite practical, but: what do we care?

"We do not really give a hoot, if we are not so practical. We do not really care if all those odd acquaintances from out of town do get lost and can't find us at all.

"We could plant those closed-up areas with pines. We could make interesting, winding driveways to those residences inside of them. It would really give a feel of a private driveway and much more extensive grounds, than the present forty by one hundred little lots do. It might even be conceived that some impractical writer-chap still would like but a trail winding through the woods to his retreat, his little shack, and what do you think of that?

"We might for instance take Junipero, San Carlos, Dolores, Monte Verde, Carmelo, San Antonio (maybe not?) and Scenic Drive for through streets.

"They could be closed in spots. In some they might be closed for the full length of the block, in others only partly and other not at all. It looks astonishingly practical and holds much promise. . . .

"The town would then have considerably fewer through streets to maintain; these could receive more attention than at present. Also a good idea from the town point of view and the taxpayers.

"I venture to say that the saving on grading in a few years would have paid for the expenses involved in parking.

"Even some of our up-and-down streets could be treated the same way. Take Tenth and Eleventh for instance. They might just as well be closed as laying the way they are. They are objects to be ashamed of and always inviting broken springs.

"Lots of other streets could be treated in a similar way, throwing the main traffic over on some main arteries, that the town could then afford to keep well gravelled and repaired. This together with our topography would remove us from the standardized checker-board-town effect. It would also lend a little mysteriousness. Did you ever see the driver's face, starting down the 'not through street' and coming to the end. He thought that sign only referred to George and

The subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, January 5, is "God." The Golden Text is from Deuteronomy: "Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord" (6:4).

The following citations are taken from the sermon:

Eph. 4:4: "There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling."

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The scientific unity which exists between God and man must be wrought out in life-practice, and God's will must be universally done" (p. 202).

CHURCH OF THE WAYFARER

We Are in God's Hands will be the sermon theme by Dr. James E. Crowther on Sunday at the Church of the Wayfarer, as a message for the New Year. It will be a service of Holy Communion, in which all are invited to participate, without sectarian distinction. Miss Lucy Valpey will preside at the organ. The Church School begins at 9:45. The Church Service is at 11:00. Visitors are cordially invited to share in this hour of Christian Fellowship.

MRS. BAXTER HOME

Mrs. T. F. Baxter, who spent the Christmas holidays with her son, Dr. Phillip Baxter, and his family in Piedmont, returned yesterday to her home in Carmel. Dr. Baxter and his family came down and will be at Mrs. Baxter's for the weekend.

St. John's Chapel is a beautiful little church nestling in a grove of giant oak trees. Men and women from many lands have found it to be a place apart. It may be that you also will find its atmosphere congenial to the spiritual life. The Chapel is open all day long. Those who seek in its stillness to grow more conscious of God's presence do not go unrewarded.

is a mammal. Shame on you, you law-breaker."

And there's no cause for you to be amused at the mouse-trap owning law breakers in Carmel just because you haven't a mouse trap. How about the duck gun in your closet? "It is unlawful to use, or have in possession in a game refuge any fire arms."

Suppose someone demanded that this law be enforced! Consider the spectacle of our sportsmen parking their shotguns and rifles in Watsonville, as you'd check a hat, before entering the confines of the game refuge to come home, like the fine free days of the early west when gentlemen checked their sidearms with their overcoats when they went to a church sociable. And speaking of sidearms—where does the pistol club find itself, discharging firearms in a game refuge on their target range in the artichoke field down by the river?

What brought this on was the sight of two adolescents with small bore rifles slung over their shoulders, going up Ocean Avenue. They were stopped by two companions who wanted to see and handle the guns. In the middle of the sidewalk the kids monkeyed with these lethal weapons, every movement they made demonstrating that guns and they were up to that moment practically strangers.

There is a law prohibiting the carrying of unbroken or uncased guns on public carriers such as trains or buses. I wondered if there wasn't an equally sensible law regarding the carrying of ready-for-action guns on town and city streets, and called on Judge Ross to find out. There is no such law, but one thing led to another, and he read me the game law that has always entertained him by its incongruity in its application to Carmel.

Of course, the youngsters with their guns on Ocean Avenue are in violation of the refuge law simply in possessing the guns, but if one started enforcing that law, where would he end up?

Meanwhile, parents who give kids guns for Christmas might assume a little of the responsibility that goes with such a gift. They could start with the comment that it is not good gun etiquette to carry an unbroken rifle on a city street, nor to pass it around among your friends in populous places. I have yet to see a self-respecting hunter behave in such a manner.

Writing for Radio, Acting Classes Given By Adult Schools

Two new courses, Acting for Radio and Writing for Radio are to be given at the Monterey Adult Schools starting January 6. Through the co-operation of the Staff of KDON the classes will be given time on the air to participate in their own original plays. A former radio player, Mrs. Estelle Carota, will be in charge of both groups.

The course Acting for Radio, designed to prepare dramatic aspirants for actual radio productions, will be held at the Monterey Adult School at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays, beginning January 7.

The class Writing for Radio will meet Mondays and Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. at the Sunset School Library in Carmel, starting January 6.

Registration may be made at the first meeting of each class, and as the program is sponsored by the public schools there is no charge.

Sanitary Board Talks Of Master Improvement Plan

A building boom that would double the size of the community would still find the plant adequate," Keith Evans, member of the Carmel Sanitary District Board, said this week. However, the board is considering employing an engineer to look over the plant and draw up plans for fire department. School kids, who may have hoped for a vacation when the news reached them, will be disappointed, however. Enough buildings were left over so that classes can be held January 6, with a lot of doubling up. The laboratories of the high school, in the main building, were completely destroyed, and other local high schools have offered the use of their laboratories and other facilities for the Pacific Grove students. Whether it will be necessary to take advantage of their offer or not has not yet been decided. The school board hopes to procure some pre-fabricated buildings to serve as temporary laboratories.

Gustav Lannestock sees a great many things from his window at the Carmel Point. About a year ago, he noticed a girl who walked the beach alone except for a big police dog. One day, a young man appeared. The girl, the dog and the man walked the beach together for about a week, and then they disappeared. Recently he saw them again, this time with a fourth added to their party: a baby.

Next installment will have to wait until Gustav and his wife Lucille return from Peru, Chile and Sweden, for which ports they left this week on an extended vacation.

On a chill bitter day towards dusk recently, when the artichoke fields were sombre green, the valley over-shadowed by clouds and the whole sky a thick, discouraging gray, we noticed the gate of the Carmel Mission was standing open, so walked in to sit in the garden. Carried away in speculation as to what the Mission was like in the days when it was thronged with Indian neophytes from up the Carmel Valley and down the coast, we didn't notice at first the crowd of young people who thronged noisily from the south wing of the church. In the lowering dusk, it was difficult to distinguish features plainly, but two young men stopped with a woman a few paces behind them who seemed to be wearing some sort of Spanish costume.

"Do you know when the mission was built?" the young men asked.

"1771."

"And what is that cross standing there?"

"I don't know. What does it say?"

"1771."

"Then it probably marks the founding of the church. However, I don't know."

As they walked away, the woman passed close by, and astonishingly, turned out to be a Hindu woman, slim and delicately built, wearing a deep yellow sari with a band of some brighter, deeper color near the hem. She had a cloak over her shoulders, what appeared to be a caste-mark on her forehead, and her skin was darker than that of most Hindus, almost black. This apparition disappeared quickly into the dusk, and a car drove off, whisking her away.

Terese Whiteside Wins Award For Color Photography

Mrs. Terese Whiteside received notice this week from the Photographic Society of America, telling her that she had won fourth place in the International Color Slide Competition held recently by their Color Division.

The winning entry was a color transparency taken in Monterey of Fisherman's Wharf. The slides were judged by projecting them on a screen.

Mrs. Whiteside has been doing color photography for only half a year as a hobby to give her a change from writing. She uses an old Kodak which she bought second-hand for ten dollars ten years ago, and has not even a light meter. Color photography is a lot easier, she says, than the professionals make out, and is within the range of almost anyone.

Sport Notes

With rain threatening the ball game blew up in the faces of the Legionnaires in the fifth. Four solid hits plus a walk provided the impetus for the winning rally. Miyamoto, although pitching a good game, was wilder than usual and gave up nine free tickets to first. This wildness coupled with fielding miscues at inopportune times spelled defeat for the hard-working Legionnaires.

Jim Priem, a Junior College Freshman from Los Banos, had the Carmel hitters well in hand, and barring streaks of wildness, looks to have the requisites for better baseball. He is cool and poised on the mound and bears down with confidence when in trouble. The Jaycee boys play good ball and provide the fans with an interesting exhibition whenever they take the field. With all the teams in the league gunning for them they have to be at their peak every Sunday.

...to take the measure of future needs...

As fast as labor and materials permit, this Company is rushing work on its vast $160,000,000 three-year expansion program in Northern and Central California.

Expenditures in 1946 will reach about $40,000,000. During 1947 and 1948 the number of dollars going to work should increase to $60,000,000 per year.

These improvements are like a giant yardstick measuring up the future. They give assurance of an unfailing supply of electricity for agricultural, industrial, commercial and home users.

Here is a multi-million dollar spending program that puts no financial burden on the general public. It is financed by thousands of stock and bond holders who have invested their savings in this enterprise. It is tax producing. It is an all-around good deal for you and your community.

Thought for Meditation

There's ever walking
side by side,
To be accepted or denied,

A fight or wrong that
fills each day,
That never fails
to come our way.

A task that we're to live, to do,
Is making choice
between the two;
We find it's one
continuous fight,
To always stand for what is right.

MPCC—Hobsons' Choice

Brigadier General Wm. H. Hobson, USA, Retired, Mrs. Hobson, and their daughter, Miss Mary Hobson, who have been residing in Carmel for the past several months have moved into their recently-purchased home nearby on San Carlos Road, Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

General Hobson's last active-duty assignment was that of wartime commanding general of Fort Benning, Georgia. Following his retirement, he made his home in Columbus, Georgia, for several months before moving to California. He served on the west coast in 1941-42 as commanding officer of the 30th U. S. Infantry in turn at the Presidio of San Francisco, Fort Lewis, Washington, San Diego, and Fort Ord.

Dr. Sisson Home

Carmel friends find it good to see Edward Octavius Sisson striding along the streets again after an absence of six weeks. Dr. Sisson has been giving the series of lectures on What Is Man at Reed College, and although his experience at his old stamping ground in Portland was exciting, stimulating and gratifying with the S. R. O. sign out, Dr. Sisson is happy to be home again.

Finds A Home

Mrs. Lucy B. Jacco, long a resident of Carmel, where she specialized in taking old shacks and making them over into charming homes, ran out of remodeling material in the village. She is moving into a new home on Huckleberry Hill, New Monterey.

Have You Read...?

(Continued from page 6) inability to stop drinking, but an inability to drink at all. Those ordinary folk who are able to drink socially are to be congratulated." Or as a patient of mine who was a periodic drinker said: "Doctor, one drink is too much for me and a gallon is not enough."

The alcoholic has an irresistible desire to drink. He feels an urge to escape from everything or nothing. The start of his drinking may be insignificant but once started he cannot stop and the finish is tragic.

Physicians familiar with the work of Alcoholics Anonymous are highly impressed with the value of the organization as was the psychiatrist in the story. By focussing attention on this group, the author has made a definite contribution to the solution of the alcoholic's problem.

The comradeship and understanding of the united front of alcoholics struck home. Ellen at last realized that "an alcoholic is one who drinks in such a way as to make it impossible for him to manage his life; he messes up his own life and those about him." Alcohol became distasteful to her and she ended by helping another poor, bedraggled, drunken creature to her restoration.

The book is dramatically presented and intelligently written. It conveys a heartening message not only to alcoholics but to everyone who is sincerely anxious to help these really fine people afflicted with the disease of alcoholism.

Bolin-Culin Engagement

Dr. and Mrs. Rolf L. Bolin formally announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Cadet John Edward Culin, at a cocktail party last Saturday evening. Both are graduates of Carmel High School. John Culin was a member of the class of '42 and Barbara class of '43. Barbara is now at home after attending the University of Arizona for a year and Cadet John Culin is at West Point, First class. He is Cadet Captain and regimental adjutant. Barbara's father, Dr. Rolf L. Bolin, is assistant director of the Hopkins Marine Station at Pacific Grove. Cadet Culin is the son of Major General and Mrs. Frank L. Culin, Dolores and Santa Lucia, Carmel. The young couple plan a June wedding after Cadet Culin's graduation at West Point.

Edith Dickinson's Party

Miss Edith Dickinson of San Francisco, who spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dickinson on the Point, entertained a group of her friends last Saturday evening. There was good talk and warm friendliness around the punch bowl. Those who enjoyed the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd, Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Kocher, Mrs. Marie Short, Kraig Short, Dr. Eric Berne, Miss Muriel Rukeyser, Dr. Margaret Stuart, Sam Colburn, Henry and Mona Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf Lannestock, and Miss Angela Kapa-Bianca.

Bottle Party

Pulling no punches or Tom and Jerrys, Edward Weston and Mr. and Mrs. Cole Weston called their New Year's Eve celebration a Bottle party. All the Westons were home. Brett and his daughter, Erica, came for the holidays as he is leaving shortly on his project of photographing the east coast for which he received the Guggenheim Fellowship. Neil Weston has returned from a jaunt to Los Angeles, and Mrs. Cole Weston's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Herrman, from Vancouver, B. C., were there. Friends who shared in the gala family reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Abas, Mr. and Mrs. Morley Baer, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Baer, Mr. and Mrs. Whit Wellman, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lofton, Mr. and Mrs. David Hagemeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd, Henrietta Shore, Betty Horst, Marjory Warren, Eliza Clevenger, Jean Kellogg, Beverly Sharp, and Mr. and Mrs. Matt Jenkins and their daughter, Barbara.

Elliott Arnold's Guests

Elliott Arnold, the novelist, and his wife, Helen, entertained informally New Year's Eve in honor of their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Emmons, parents of Mrs. Arnold, who are here from Salinas, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Paul Phillips of Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips are taking a long vacation after doing months of service as entertainers with the U. S. O., which took them on a tour of North Africa and Italy, where plenty of shooting was going on. Mr. Phillips is an independent producer in Hollywood who gave up his business completely during the war. He is now resting and gathering material for a fresh start.

When you go dinner dancing, these are the things which are most important: your best girl, good friends, a congenial crowd, superb food, pleasant service, lovely surroundings and music to which you can really dance.

Although we leave it to you to supply the first two, the Del Monte Lodge does the rest. Bill Parker is Maitre d' and you will remember he has been presiding over Peninsula fun both at the Lodge and the old Bali Room for twenty-five years. He will take care of your reservations and see to it that you receive every comfort.

There's more room now and air-cooling has been installed. If you do not wish dinner, there is only a one dollar per person cover charge. Bill Pierce has the Peninsula's favorite dance band and the chances are you cannot stump him on a request.

Make your plans now to hold your Saturday night party at the Del Monte Lodge.

Needless to say, the 50c charge at the gate is refunded for those having dinner.

LYDIA BAILEY

By Kenneth Roberts
author of Northwest Passage
and Oliver Wiswell

In LYDIA BAILEY, as in all his novels, Kenneth Roberts' vigorous, intimate style gives the reader the sense of sharing the lives of his characters and of actually living in their own time. History, romance and adventure are again skillfully blended. This is Mr. Roberts' first novel in six years. 3.00

MR. BLANDINGS BUILDS HIS DREAM HOUSE

By Eric Hodgins

This is the story of everything that happened between the time Mr. and Mrs. Blandings decided to buy that old farmhouse and its acreage for $11,000 and the time when they shelled out what they hoped was the last of the $56,263 their dream home eventually cost! 2.75

PICASSO:

THE RECENT YEARS

By Harriet and Sidney Janis

In this first comprehensive and distinguished study of Picasso during the war years the mystery of a great artist and his work is unveiled. The authors, well known for successful books on art, have made a careful study of the subtle changes in Picasso's work, and they also tell the story of the artist's enormous production, his defiance of the Nazis, and his political outlook. This book is definitely both a collector's and a layman's item. Generously illustrated with 100 new plates, several of them in full color. 7.50

McEwen's Have A Girl

Arthur and Mary Lloyd McEwen are happy to announce the arrival of Gwen, a baby girl, weighing six pounds seven and one-half ounces, who was born Sunday morning, December 29, at the Peninsula Hospital. Arthur McEwen, formerly on the Call-Bulletin, San Francisco, served in the army for three years, participating in the invasion of Normandy and the fighting in France. After his discharge he decided to make a career of writing and came to Carmel to live. Mother of the new baby, Mary Lloyd, was a Lieutenant in the Nursing Corps. Mrs. Richard E. Thompson of San Francisco, the maternal grandmother, came down for the event, and Mrs. Alan McEwen, paternal grandmother, has for the past two years been a resident of Carmel, where she has been coming for vacations for twenty years.

Reception For Dr. Hart

Dr. Henry H. Hart, authority on Chinese art and culture, and Mrs. Hart, will be guests of honor at an informal afternoon at the Carmel Booksellers, on Sunday, January 5. Dr. Hart has long been recognized as a leader in his field, and has recently completed a lecture tour of the United States. His books include translations from the Chinese and he has travelled widely in the Orient. Recently Dr. Hart, who is incidentally a doctor of jurisprudence, was appointed a lecturer to the University of California on the civilization of China. The Buddha, by Jeanne D'Orge, will be exhibited for the occasion. Tea hostesses will be Mrs. Laura Chester and Mrs. Anthony Marino. Booklovers are cordially invited to drop in between the hours of 3 and 5 p. m.

Sacramento Visitors

Dr. and Mrs. Nathan Hale's lovely new home was filled with old friends, who came down from Sacramento to spend the holiday season. Enjoying their hospitality were Dr. and Mrs. John Fanning, Mr. and Mrs. Royal Miller, Miss Rae St. Thomas, Miss Martha Scheuer, and Mr. Alan Henderson. Tuesday morning the Hales had a breakfast party which was something special and festive with the young Hales, Adrian and Adrianna, participating. In honor of their guests, Dr. and Mrs. Hale entertained at a cocktail party on New Year's Day.

Egg Nog At The Murl Ogdens

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Murl Ogdens served egg nog and a lot of their friends dropped in to sample it and say goodbye, as they left Monday for Los Angeles. Before returning to Carmel they will make a trip to Yosemite.

Ruskell Holiday Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Speirs Ruskell had as their house guests Christmas week, Mrs. Ruskell's brother, Kenneth Kerr of Waukesha, Wisconsin, and her mother, Mrs. J. E. Hartell of Los Angeles.

The Frank Kolos In Town

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kolos of San Francisco spent the Christmas holiday as guests of Pine Inn. Mr. Kolos, who is a medical technician, served as a major in Persia with the U. S. Army medical corps.

Church Women's Tea

The Monterey Peninsula Council of Church Women are holding a silver tea this afternoon at 2:30 at the Baptist church in New Monterey. Highlights of the recent national convention of the United Council of Church Women in Grand Rapids will be given by Mrs. E. L. Menker of Oakland. All church women are invited to the meeting.

Colburn Tatting Bee

Sam Colburn says "A co-operative clambake and tatting bee was given New Year's Eve by the Marching and Chowder Society of Upper Pescadero Road at the studio of Sam Colburn." Sam gave this information to The Pine Cone before the society began to tat.

Family Get-together

Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Edwards drove from Los Angeles, arriving in Carmel Christmas Eve to spend the holiday with Mr. Edwards' mother, Mrs. Carol Edwards and his sister, Mrs. Jack Canoles. This is the first Christmas in 25 years that they have been together.

Honeymooners

Lieutenant and Mrs. E. T. Kincaid spent a week in Honeymoon Cottage after their marriage in San Francisco. They return to the city this week and Lt. Kincaid will leave on the U. S. S. William Mitchell for Guam.

Friends Dropped In

Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Van Meter entertained a few friends at an informal cocktail party at their home on the Point last Sunday.

Agnes Shand Has Moved

Miss Agnes Shand and Shandy have moved from Guadalupe street and are now snugly settled at the Half Pint at Tenth and Lincoln.

Back To West Point

Cadet Edward White who came from West Point to spend the holidays with his parents, General and Mrs. Charles H. White, left Monday on the Constellation, returning to the Academy.

Stockton Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Menzies, who have come from Stockton and recently bought a home in Hatton Fields, have had Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Renwick of Stockton as their guests during the holidays.

Molly Kellogg Home

Molly Kellogg arrived home from Japan the day after Christmas, just missing the family reunion at the home of Miss Clara and Miss Ella Kellogg, but she had two Christmas dinners, one at Kwajalein and another at Honolulu, thanks to the international date line. Molly came on a transport plane which was far from a luxury liner but nobody minded—they were coming home. Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Kellogg received the message of the plane's arrival and drove to Fairfield to meet her.

Forest Hill School

Among the festive occasions of the season was the closing exercises at Forest Hill School when the children put on a delightful program before an enthusiastic gathering of friends and families. Nursery, kindergarten and primary departments gave a review of the year's work in music and French, and the remainder of the program was devoted to the singing of carols, the children wearing gay capes and caps, and carrying lanterns. School will reopen January 6.

Return Visit

Mrs. Jessemae F. Shaw of Lawton, Oklahoma, who visited in Carmel in 1944, has returned for an indefinite stay. Temporarily, she is staying at Holiday House.

Visit Children

Mrs. Terese Whiteside spent Christmas at Arroyo Grande with her children and grandchildren: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ross, Lee Allen and Gary, and Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Horner, Laura Lee and Jimmy. She was accompanied by her husband, Addison Whiteside.

Skillmans Have Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Skillman held open house on Christmas Eve in honor of Mrs. Katherine Grenfell of Washington, D. C., who has been their guest for two months and who left for her home Sunday evening. Mrs. Skillman's sister, Mrs. Frances Smithers, assisted the hostess in receiving the guests.

Still going on is a semi-annual sale at THE CARMEL DRESS SHOP on Ocean at Dolores. With Christmas and New Year's over, sales are the best news in sight, and if you go early to THE CARMEL DRESS SHOP you'll find a wide variety of styles and sizes in dresses, suits and coats on sale at pleasing prices.

Up on the second floor on the corner of Ocean and Mission SEVERNS new store may be reached by the door next to the Carmel Restaurant, and the sun streams in the broad windows all day long. You'll find new radios and phonograph combinations in stock—a Westinghouse seven-tube table model radio for instance, and a phonograph radio combination, with automatic record changer and a radio unit, which may be taken out and used as a portable—all for $104.95.

Even if you've never threaded a needle in your life you'll want to begin sewing immediately when you see the fine materials in PUTNAM AND RAGGETT'S on Ocean Avenue. Rayon jersey is new this week—some in fanciful screen prints and other bolts in small checks in many colors. There's wide rayon taffeta, too, in tiny plaids, which would make a delightful mother and daughter outfit.

Mordant, micabre and misanthropic will do to describe the work of Ambrose Bierce who comes forth as brilliantly biting as ever in an edition of selected writings—titled THE COLLECTED WRITING OF AMBROSE BIERCE, with an introduction and evaluation by Clifton Fadiman, which you may find at THE CARMEL BOOKSELLERS on Mission north of Fifth. Bierce had a great deal in common with a basilisk, and his style and mood have had many imitators—none of whom could achieve the same virulence which marks his writing. In The Midst of Life, one of the stories which appears in the current edition of his work, was recently chosen by the Grolier Society as one of the hundred works which have most influenced American letters.

At the PIONEER'S sale, going on next to the Post Office on Dolores, you can buy such things as blankets, bed spreads, house coats, fabrics and toys at great reductions. The plastic pillow covers and table cloth protectors look interesting, too. These cases and covers are made of clear silk-like indestructible Dupont plastic and they will protect the pillow and the head that rests on it, and preserve your table linens.

RADIO SERVICE BY BAYARD on Sixth at Dolores still has a few Webster Record Changers. These efficient little machines take up no room at all but they can handle the standard number of records, playing them through your radio automatically. They cost $32.90. The Gárod table model six tube radios in BAYARD'S come in bright plastic cases, in case you'd like a small radio with your record changer. BAYARD'S is an authorized Scott service representative, by the way, and after some twenty-four years in radio work, the shop can give excellent service for radios and phonographs.

Anne Eagal Engaged

Miss Anne E. Eagal (the former Mrs. Jack Jordon of Carmel) announced her engagement to Mr. Richard Kelly at a family reunion in Stockton during the holidays. Miss Eagal is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Eagal of Stockton and Carmel Point and who resided in Carmel for several years.

Miss Eagal was graduated in art at the College of the Pacific; and in 1943 enlisted in the WAVES and attended Hunter College at New York, finishing her training at Millageville, Georgia, and was later stationed at the Naval Supply Base at San Diego as Petty Officer 1/c. She was inactivated several months ago and now resides at Coronada, California.

Mr. Kelly is the son of Mrs. Richard Kelly of Chicago and served in the Armed Forces during the war in England, France and Italy. Before entering the service he was connected with the main branch of the Bank of America at San Diego and has now returned to his duties at the bank.

The wedding will take place early in February.

Party-Prevue At Pat Wall Gallery

Hundreds of people turned up at the Pat Wall Modern Art Gallery Prevue New Year's Eve, to the great surprise of Pat and Susan Wall, who had expected only a few, considering it was New Year's Eve. After a brief glance at the paintings in the gallery, which amazed everyone because of the contrast between each artist's "old and new" styles, they dashed over to the house for a session at the punch table.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Ellwood Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Andre Moreau, Mr. and Mrs. David Tolerton, Mr. and Mrs. John Wilgress, Webster Street, Remo Scardigli, Mr. and Mrs. William Hesthal, Rogaway, Jean Varda, Bill Greene, Mrs. Hilda Duarte Brown, and dozens of others who dropped in during the course of the evening.

Most notable was Gertrude Harris' costume, which fascinated everyone and had been fashioned that day especially for the party. She wore a navy blue skirt of a crash material, a chartreuse sweater, and a head-dress of various colored net which was created by her husband, Dan Harris. Pink, blue, yellow, white, the big filmy veiling was supported by a huge red crescent moon, slightly lopsided.

From Scotland

Mr. and Mrs. John Dixon Brunton of Ingeresk Lodge, Musselburgh, Scotland, are the house guests of Mrs. Paul Flanders. The long time friends arrived from Scotland on the Queen Elizabeth on November 11 in New York. After their visit here they will return east by way of Phoenix and return home in February. So extensive a trip was possible during these times of trans-Atlantic travel limitations because Mr. Burton, who is one of the leading Scotch industrialists, had business matters to attend to on this side.

Williams Clan Gathers New Year's

There was a gathering of the local Williams clan New Year's night at the home of Mrs. Burton Williams. Among those present were Mrs. Jessie Lynch Williams, her son, Jessie Lynch Williams, and her other two sons and their wives, Henry Meade Williams and Laidlaw Williams. Also present were Mrs. Russell Williams, Mrs. Susan Mott Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Alistair Miller, Mr. Alec Miller, and Mrs. John Wilgress.

Mr. Alec Miller entertained the gathering by reciting ballads and the poetry of Robert Burns.

Burton Williams In Town

Burton Williams and his daughter, Nancy, have been in Carmel for the holidays.

Hughes Give Aloha Supper

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hughes entertained at a small buffet supper last week as a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hughes, who are starting out on a fifteen thousand mile flying trip. Accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Fran Porter, who will go with them as far as Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, after visiting in Mexico, will fly on to South America. They expect to be gone three months.

Dr. and Mrs. Curtis Smith Here

Dr. and Mrs. Curtis Smith of San Francisco spent last weekend in Carmel. Dr. Smith has served for the past several years as chairman of the Irwin Memorial blood bank. Mrs. Smith is prominent in the women's auxiliary to the San Francisco County Medical Society.

Open House At The Stofers

It has been a tradition with Dr. and Mrs. Dar D. Stofer to have open house on New Year's Day and this year was no exception. Their home at San Antonio and Seventh was decked with holidays greens and egg nog was served. Their daughters, Barbara Stofer, who is attending Stanford University, and Alison, a student at San Diego State College, were both home on vacation as assisted as hostesses.

Week-Long Open House

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Abernathy had open house all through the holidays. Their house was decorated throughout with greens, two trees were gay with ornaments. A cocktail party on Sunday evening was the only approach to a formal affair, but friends dropped in all week for cheer and to meet the Abernathys' guests, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Faser of San Jose.

Former Edith Stebbins Here

Mr. and Mrs. Don Jennings of San Francisco spent the holidays at the Highlands, where Mrs. Jennings, the former Edith Stebbins, renewed old acquaintances.

Until her marriage last year, Mrs. Jennings was director of a dramatic school for children in Carmel.

Anna Engel Engaged

Miss Anna E. Engel (the former Mrs. Jack Johnson of Carmel) announced her engagement to Mr. Richard Kelly at a family reunion in Stockton during the holidays. Miss Engel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Engel of Stockton and Carmel Point and who resided in Carmel for several years. Miss Engel was graduated in art at the College of the Pacific and in 1943 studied in the WAVES and attended Hunter College at New York, finishing her training at Millersville, Georgia, and was later stationed at the Naval Supply Base at San Diego as Petty Officer 1c. She was married several months ago and now resides at Coronado, California.

Mr. Kelly is the son of Mrs. Richard Kelly of Chicago and served in the Armed Forces during the war in England, France and Italy. Before entering the service he was connected with the main branch of the Bank of America at San Diego and has now returned to his duties at the bank. The wedding will take place early in February.

Party-Preview At Pat Wall Gallery

Hundreds of people turned up at the Pat Wall Modern Art Gallery Preview New Year's Eve, to the great surprise of Pat and Susan Wall, who had expected only a few, considering it was New Year's Eve. After a brief glance at the paintings in the gallery, which amazed everyone because of the contrast between each artist's "old and new" styles, they dashed over to the lounge for a session at the punch table.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Edwood Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Andre Moreau, Mr. and Mrs. David Tolerton, Mr. and Mrs. John Wilgess, Webster Street, Reno Scardigh, Mr. and Mrs. William Hesthal, Eugeneway-Jean Varda, Bill Greene, Mrs. Hilda Duarte Brown, and dozens of others who dropped in during the course of the evening.

Most notable was Gertrude Harris' costume, which fascinated everyone and had been fashioned that day especially for the party. She wore a navy blue skirt of a crash material, a chertreuse sweater, and a head-dress of various colored net which was created by her husband, Dan Harris. Pink, blue, yellow, white, the big filmy veiling was supported by a huge red crescent moon, slightly rippled.

From Scotland

Mr. and Mrs. John Dixon Brunton of Ingersoll Lodge, Musselburgh, Scotland, are the house guests of Mrs. Paul Flanders. The long time friends arrived from Scotland on the Queen Elizabeth on November 11 in New York. After their visit here they will return east by way of Phoenix and return home in February. So extensive a trip was possible during these times of trans-Atlantic travel limitations because Mr. Brunton, who is one of the leading Scotch industrialists, had business matters to attend to on this side.

Sahlsten's Open House
Friends of Dr. and Mrs. Ernst Sahlsten were welcomed with a great glowing fire on the hearth and a cup of egg nog as they dropped in to say Happy New Year. Everyone was interested in the lovely new snow scene that filled the long broad window sill. Santa Claus and his reindeer, a wonderful collection of miniature animals, stood among glistening fir trees.

Christmas Party

One of the gala affairs of the season was the party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Porter Sunday before Christmas in Robles del Rio, when Barbara and Paul Porter and Peggy and Milton Marquard held open house. Decorations were in keeping with the spirit of Christmas. A snow scene with a little church, which played Silent Night, and a dancing Santa Claus, provided music and amusement. About sixty guests called during the evening.

Scouts To Yosemite

Lucky Boy Scouts who trekked into the snow country on Monday were John Fortier, Bobby Updyke, Ronald Stoney, Ronny and Lanny Doolittle, Bobby Osborne and Zane Byrd, all of Boy Scout Troop 32. The boys left for Yosemite with Scout Leader Carl Bensberg, assisted by Fremont O. Ballou. For eleven years selected scouts have been going to this privileged camp where a program of winter sports, hikes to historical places are provided. The boys will return on Saturday.

Family Gathering

Mrs. Elmer E. Cottle and her daughter, Frances Cottle Johnson, entertained at their home on Perry Newberry Way during the holidays for members of their family. Among those present were Mrs. Cottle's daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Stratton of Compton; her son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Cottle and children, Carol Ann and Paul, of Gilroy; and Warren Cottle Johnson, Mrs. Johnson's son, who recently returned from overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Stratton remained until Sunday when they returned to their home in Compton. Warren Johnson accompanied them for a holiday in southern California. While there Warren will visit with Robert Mammen of Los Angeles, and William Sabre of Hollywood, both of whom were with Warren in the Recovered Personnel Division of the Army while they were in Japan and the Philippine Islands.

Rev. Alfred Secombe
Invested January 1
By Bishop Karl Block

The Right Reverend Dr. Karl Morgan Block, Bishop of California, celebrated Holy Communion at All Saints' Church on the Feast of the Circumcision, New Year's Day. The Communion Sermon was preceded by the Institution of the Reverend Alfred B. Secombe as rector of All Saints' Church. Mr. Secombe preached a short address.

After the services, which began at 10:30 a. m., coffee and cake were served in the Parish House by Mrs. John W. Dickinson and Mrs. Guy W. Jordan.

Days Before Yesterday

not to him, also a human trait.

"We are really trying to retain the old woodsy, residential town. Doing the above would go a long way towards bringing back an illusion of it anyway. Fundamentally, however unconscious it has been, Carmel has been striving to retain the old Carmel 'FEEL' of the winding trails through the woods to that hidden cottage.

"We have the big settings. We have them galore. It is the little things we have to emphasize in order to bring out and enhance the big things.

"The little, woodsy dell relaxes our minds to such a point, that when the beach . . . and all those other big sets burst upon our view then the mind is quieted down and elastic enough to widen out and grasp the infinite, potential, understood beauty that we DO have."

Dinner To Precede Annual Meeting At All Saints'

The annual parish meeting of All Saints' Episcopal Church will be celebrated this year by a turkey dinner at the Parish House on Monte Verde street, south of Ocean Avenue, on the Feast of the Epiphany, Monday, January 6, at 6:30 p. m. This is the first time in many years that the parish meeting has followed a dinner, instead of a luncheon. After dinner the reports for the Church, the Woman's Auxiliary, the Missionary Society, the Altar Guilds, and the United Thank Offering for the past year will be given, and the new vestry and officers will be elected. All parishioners will be welcome.

The charge for the dinner is 75 cents. Arrangements are in the hands of Mrs. Sidney Williams, nee Martha Millis, assisted by Mrs. D. Macmillan Kerr, Mrs. Walter Johnston, Mrs. M. K. Hall, Mrs. John W. Dickinson, Mrs. Guy W. Jordan, Mrs. E. S. Prebble and Mrs. R. Ellis Roberts. The younger ladies of the parish will serve the dinner.

Kippy Stuart Next Speaker For Carmel Adult School Group

In line with Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte's policy to make her class acquainted with many of the well published writers who make their homes on the Monterey Peninsula, next Tuesday evening, January 7, at 7:30, in room 11 of Sunset School, Mrs. George Stuart (Kippy) will speak to the class.

Kippy Stuart will tell the background of her childhood which led her to write her books, a human story rather than a literary one, and visitors who wish to hear her are invited to join the class for that evening.

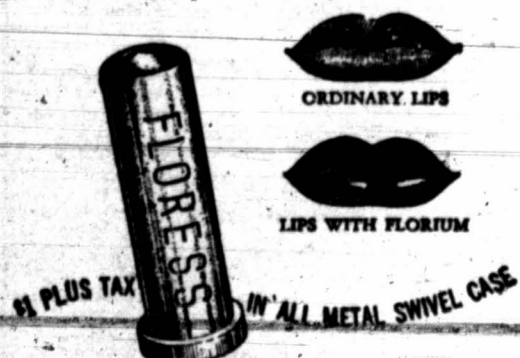

WHALES AT SEA AGAIN

Whit Wellman says the whale season is on again. He saw two, rather small, whales joyfully disporting themselves off Yankee Point the other day, blowing and spouting, rising to the surface and then vanishing beneath the wave, the way whales do.

THE RAIN

Last rain was Thursday, December 26, when .44 inch fell. Season to date: 6.47 inches.

BOYS' CLUB DANCE

The Carmel Boys' Club will have their first social gathering tomorrow night, when a dance will be held at the American Legion Hall from 9 p. m. until 1 o'clock. Refreshments will be served, games will be played, and parents are urged to attend. All the directors and their wives have been invited.

The dance will be semi-formal, which means that any of the boys and girls who want to wear formal can do so, and those that don't want to, don't have to. The younger boys will probably go home early.

Woodford Dufur, a director of the Carmel Boys' Club, hopes that this will be only the beginning of many social events in the future for the youth of Carmel.

Building And Loan Reduces Interest On Savings Accounts

At the recent meeting of the Carmel Building & Loan Association, directors declared interest on savings accounts at the rate of 2½ percent per annum. Heretofore this institution had been paying interest at the rate of 3 percent.

According to Barnet Segal, secretary and manager, this rate was reduced as a result in part of the large demand for G. I. loans in the past year, of which he financed approximately $100,000. Total loans for the year were in excess of a quarter million dollars.

VERY PETTY THIEF

Pretty mean was the thief who sneaked into the Carmel Bakery Monday afternoon, December 30, broke open the Red Cross milk bottle and filched the money. Nobody noticed what had happened until the thief had gone, and Miss Alice Cresson called the police.

Although there probably wasn't very much money in the milk bottle, just a lot of pennies, the spirit of the thing strikes the police as being utterly deplorable.

Joan Harrington Wins School Bond Slogan Contest

Winner of the School Bond Election Campaign slogan contest was Carmel High School Junior Joan Harrington. The award was made by Mrs. Howard Elton Clark, who donated the prize for the contest, at the Christmas assembly in the high school music room.

"Back the Bonds and Build Better Schools," was the prize-winning slogan. Second prize winner was Mill Marquardt, sophomore; third prize winner, Ardith Morrisseau, another sophomore.

Willard Wheeler, Ernest Morehouse and Mrs. Clark were the judges.

STOLEN CAR

A 1942 two-tone green Chevrolet sedanette belonging to B. J. Arnould of Oakland was stolen last Saturday night, when it was parked between Ocean and Seventh streets. Edward Botsford, who came down from Oakland with Arnould to spend the holidays at the Highlands, turned in the report to the police department.

No trace of the car has yet been found.
